

To brother, with love

This Raksha Bandhan, instead of buying a rakhi for your brother, why not design one for him? You could learn how to make it from scratch at The Hab, a newly-launched experiential haberdashery store in Khar. They provide material such as sequins, buttons, stones, laces and borders for cool sewing ideas. Starting today, sewing experts will offer day-long demonstrations for rakhi-making at the store. Just drop by with a basic concept in mind. The demos are free and customers only have to pay for the material they buy. We think, it's a good deal.
